AT THE PALACE OF JABBA THE HUTT

Jester! I'm bored. I command you to tell me a joke - and make it funny, or I'll feed you to the rancor.

Yes, master!

A man lives next door to the Jedi Temple, and he keeps hearing a mysterious noise coming from it. He can't work out what it is. Not knowing is driving him crazy. One day he decides he can't take it any more - he just has to know where it's coming from, so he goes in to ask.

"Can I help you?" asks a Jedi Master.

"I just want to know what that noise is," says the man.

"I'm sorry, I can't tell you," says the Master, "as you're not a Jedi."

"How do I become a Jedi, then?" says the man. "I must know!"

"You must think about the Force, silently and alone, for five years," says the Master. "Then return to me." So the man goes away and thinks for five years, completely alone.

"Excellent," says the Master, when he returns.

"Now: please can I find out what that noise is?" asks the man.

"I'm sorry, you are not a Jedi!" says the Master. "Now you must spend five years in the deserts of Tatooine, eating nothing but sand, drinking nothing but ... sand juice, I guess - then return, and we shall see."

The man goes into the desert and lives there in a hole in the sand for the next five years. He's covered in sand the whole time.

He's sick of the sight of sand.
Don't even get him started about the Jawas. When his time is up, he returns to the Temple.

"Well done," says the Jedi Master.

"Can I find out what that—" says the man.

"I'm sorry, you are not a Jedi! But here is your final test: as a test of your faith in the Force, you must fling yourself off the tallest tower in the city."

The man isn't really sure about this, but it's been ten years, and he is desperate to find out what the mysterious noise is. So he climbs to the top of the tallest tower in the city and flings himself off. Just before he hits the ground, he stops
in mid-air - it's the Jedi Master, holding him up with the power of the Force.

"Well done! You are now a Jedi," says the Master. "Come with me to the Temple, and there you will find the answers you seek!”

They walk in to the Temple, give the secret Jedi password to the guards, and are let in to a special room where the Master unlocks a heavy iron gate with three locks. Behind it is a long dark tunnel. At the end of the tunnel is a ladder leading down in to a deep dark cavern.

They climb down. The Master lights a candle and they make their way through the cave, picking their way over the rocks, until they come to a vast stone door. From behind the door the man can hear the mysterious sound, echoing out of the darkness.

The Master rolls the door aside, and behind it is a small room with a brass chest. The noise is coming from inside the box.

The man steps forward, grasps the handle, and opens the chest to reveal...

... well, I'd tell you, but you're not a Jedi.

So that's what happened to Jabba's last jester! We were all really sad to see him get eaten by the rancor, especially me, because he owed me a thousand credits.

Good evening, everyone, I'm your host for this evening, Salacious Crumb. Welcome to Jabba's palace!

We have many famous faces here tonight, all competing to see who is the funniest stand-up comedian in the galaxy. And YOU, the audience, get to decide! Just write your score for each contestant in the space provided. We'll see who wins at the end, and who's a rancor snack!

Stormtrooper

Three stormtroopers are lost in the Tatooine desert, dying of thirst.

Finally they come to a mysterious slide in the middle of the desert that has instructions at the top: "Slide down and yell the drink of your choice and at the bottom you will find a pool of that beverage."

The three troopers are very excited. The first one slides down yelling "Water!" Splash! He falls into a pool of cool, clear water.

A stormtrooper walks into a doctor's office with a jogan fruit stuck in one ear, a nerf steak stuck in the other, and a grape up his nose.

HA

Two stormtroopers are searching Tatooine for some missing droids, and have run out of water. They climb a sand dune and spot a row of three tents on the other side.

There's a shopkeeper in the first tent, so they ask for water. "Sorry, no," he says, "all I have is sponge cake." That's not going to help, think the stormtroopers, so they try the second tent.

The shopkeeper in the second tent doesn't have any water either. "Sorry," he says, "all I've got is jelly and whipped cream." They can't drink that, so they head off to the third tent.

"Do you have any water?" they ask in the the third tent. "No," says the shopkeeper, "just these little multicoloured sprinkles."

Hmm. It looks like Darth caught up with Ben Kenobi backstage because now Ben's a blue ghost ...

Spirit of Obi-Wan

The worst thing about being a Force Ghost is that the bar here doesn't serve spirits.

WAA!

I knew Darth Vader was waiting for me. I have a kind of Sith sense about these things.

Yes, it was me who put superglue on the ketchup bottle. The sauce will be with you ... always.

Ladies, gentlemen, droids, cyborgs and Force spirits: I added up all the scores and am pleased to announce that the winner of tonight's comedy contest is the great and powerful Jabba the Hutt!

He also won the raffle, the beauty contest, the long jump, musical chairs, pass-the-parcel, the rancor egg hunt, and pin-the-tail-on-the-tauntaun.

(Sometimes I wonder if he cheats?)

Thanks for coming, and remember: laugh it up, fuzzballs!
